Tree and Shrub Care Program:

- Spring Horticultural Oil Spray: This all natural liquid solution controls over-wintering eggs, immature and adult insects by applying thin natural oil film. This film will suffocate insects and their eggs. The optimum time to apply this application is early to mid spring. Especially important for controlling mite damage.
- Early Spring Root Base Fertilization: This all natural granular application is applied onto the plant’s root base area. The nutrients contained in this application are meant to promote greenness, flowering and growth to the top of the ornamentals (without promoting excessive overgrowth).
- Early, Mid and Late Summer Insect protection: These are the only ornamental applications that ARE NOT all natural. But we are committed to using I.P.M. or Integrated Pest Management. In other words; if there is not a targeted pest we will not spray it! Typically two or three treatments 4-6 weeks apart during the season will control most insect problems. (OPTIONAL due to pesticide use)
- Fall Root Base Fertilization: This all natural granular, sulfur-coated, slow release application promotes root strength and development and overall health of your ornamentals. The nutrients provided in this application are fundamental for trees and shrubs recovering from summer heat stress. The plants will store the slow release nutrients for winter protection.
- Winterization of Plants “Anti-Desiccant”: This all natural or “chap stick” liquid application applied late in the fall, protects most evergreens from (winter) drying out (yellow and brown leaves) and burning. Also Rhody’s and other evergreens look very nice and shiny for the holidays!
- Deer Control: "Deer Off" is applied to plants, usually in the fall, to deter deer from feeding on your valuable ornamentals. It is very effective through the winter months. Call for a special quote today!

The program above is an example of what we would provide to ornamental tree and shrubs in average to good condition. We know each landscape has different needs and challenges. Therefore we may suggest additional applications or services to realize your landscapes maximum potential.

Our mission at Turf Technologies again, is to constantly strive to customize a tree and shrub care program that produces the very best results for your landscape with your families safety as well as the environment as our priorities.
